Product short description:

Confidence is a crucial ingredient for a successful life. True confidence is the ability to be self-reliant, to know that you are able to cope, that you can depend upon yourself and that you are enough. Confidence is innate and is not dependent on outside validation. Its importance and fragility is often overlooked. Without it, you are not able move into full maturity as a human being. With confidence you can make choices to grow and become more, without it you are governed by fear and thus your reality contracts.
